

Does WestHost Offer Protection Against Server Attacks

While there are some tools in effect at the server level to protect the server from attacks, we do not offer protection for individual accounts against attacks. This is the client's responsibility.

If a server attack causes an overage on bandwidth or for data to be compromised within an account, you will be responsible for the overage charges.

Full Policies from WestHost can be found here: <http://www.westhost.com/policies/>